

As a ham radio operator (KD7QX) I am very concerned about the potential problems that BPL technology might introduce to my hobby. If indeed BPL technology is implemented, I would think it mandatory that safeguards be implemented as well to protect the amateur radio community that has served this nation often and well in times of emergency. The security of amateur radio communications is far more valuable than the easy availability of broad-band internet access.